

BORDER ART RESIDENCY

The Border Art Residency, a non-profit organization affiliated with the El Paso Community Foundation, offers a selected artist a period of retreat for creative work. The BAR is a spacious living/studio space in La Union, New Mexico, located 15 miles from El Paso, Texas in the scenic Mesilla Valley. Resident artists are provided with a fully furnished living/working space, a stipend of $600, and all utilities paid (except phone and Internet)-

The next open residency period is from August 1, 2018 to May 31, 2019. Applications will be accepted until February 2, 2018; the selected artist will be notified by May 2018. It is advisable to contact us again nearer the application period to receive information.

We encourage potential residents to visit the BAR if possible. La Union is a small village on the historic Don Juan de Oñate Trail, halfway between El Paso, Texas and Las Cruces, New Mexico. The nearest post office, grocery, hardware store, library, entertainment and other conveniences are at least five miles away. Transportation to, from, and during the residency period is important and must be provided by the resident.

Some residents find it necessary to supplement the stipend with part-time work. While we cannot guarantee employment, we are happy to provide the names of department chairs at area universities and community colleges for those who qualify for college teaching.

The BAR occupies the upper floor of a converted cotton gin. While it is very comfortable and spacious, the space is not accessible to those with physical disabilities. No children or pets are allowed in the space (except for short visits) and we request that artists and guests refrain from smoking indoors. The loft is furnished with a washer and dryer, television, kitchen and dining utensils, and other basic necessities. Residents must provide their own linens.

The BAR differs from many artist residency programs since it is designed for a single artist (or couple) in a remote and unique locale near the US/Mexico border. It is best suited to a self-sufficient individual who seeks a period of quiet and solitude for serious artistic inquiry and production. The selection is made by a panel of nationally recognized artists and arts professionals.

We request application materials be sent via email to info@borderartresidency.com
